Agenda Item – Hudson Park public art opportunity

Elizabeth Lagman presented the committee with panel instructions, voting procedures and overall project description. The panel consisted of six voting members with equal voting power. Each panelist represents diverse interested groups and facilities surrounding the areas. Each panelist reviewed each applicant's resume, letter of interest and all images.

First round was a silent round with panelists reviewing all submissions. The images corresponded to the digital image list located in the panelist notebook. The review process began with an overview of all submissions and images.

Second round is a voting round. The images were presented more slowly, Key phrases from each letter of interest was read aloud to help connect the application with the images. During this round comments were solicited and discussion was held. At the end of this round voting sheets were collected and scores were tallied. There was a natural break of 14.5. Artists above this break went to the third round of voting.

Third round of voting included the following artists. Each submission was reviewed, discussed, and voted on.

Burleson Winslow
Kollasch & Regnier
Lanzisero, Nightengale & Nelms
Mary Lucking
Eldon & Rachel Slick
Rebecca Thompson
Joan Waters

During this round new score sheets were handed out, comments were solicited and discussion was held. At the end of this round voting sheets were collected and scores were tallied. The artist with the highest score was Mary Lucking.

Panelists agreed unanimously on Tucson artist Mary Lucking for the Hudson Park Public Art opportunity.

Meeting adjourned at 2:30 p.m.
