COMMENTS:

This site is one block west of Mill Avenue located at the northwest corner of 13th Street and Maple Avenue. The Wilkie (Braun/Gutierrez) House at 1290 South Maple Avenue survives in its original location along the southern edge of the 1926 Park Tract Subdivision. This neighborhood (currently identified as Maple-Ash) is bordered by downtown Tempe, Arizona State University, Tempe St. Luke's Hospital, and the Union Pacific Railroad. The property is currently utilized for a single-family home with the property owner's residing on site. The owner's are requesting individual historic designation of this property through the historic overlay process.

PUBLIC INPUT

On November 13, 2008 a neighborhood meeting was held at 6 p.m. at 34 East 7th Street (Hatton Hall) in Tempe Arizona. This meeting was held in part with the Historic Preservation Commission meeting. For this meeting all the required noticing was completed to satisfy the requirements of the Zoning and Development Code Section 6-402, Neighborhood Meetings. In attendance at this meeting were both property owners of 1290 South Maple Avenue, Historic Preservation Commissioners (6), related staff (4), and approximately fifteen (15) residents in attendance.

Public comments at the meeting included the following:

- Property owners are dedicated to preservation and maintenance of resource;
- Adobe block walls [14" thick at base] were excavated from under home from basement area;
- Attention to detail has been consistent throughout current ownership of home, constructed in 1937;
- Home anchors southern edge of Maple-Ash Neighborhood;
- Looking to increase property values through formal designation;
- The red public hearing sign is a hassle and out of scale for the neighborhood;
- CONSENSUS: To move forward on Public Hearings

PROJECT ANALYSIS

Condition

This neighborhood has experienced various levels of redevelopment pressure on the neighborhood over the past decades. Although this neighborhood has seen changes, it has managed to survive and for the most part, still retain sufficient integrity to convey its historic character of the original development. The 1937 Pueblo Revival Style Wilkie (Braun/Gutierrez) House is among the majority of properties that are well maintained with historic landscapes intact and character-defining features present.

Today the 1924 Park Tract subdivision includes four (4) properties listed in the Tempe Historic Property Register, one (1) property in the National Register of Historic Places, and 92 additional properties that are considered to be contributing to a historic district. Park Tract also includes 3 vacant lots totaling approximately 1.2 acres. Vacant lots and fragment (unbuildable) parcels are excluded from the calculation of contributing properties. The 1937 Wilkie (Braun/Gutierrez) House is among 96% of the 101 built parcels in the Park Tract subdivision that are considered to be a "contributing property".

Age

Constructed in 1937, a significant portion of the Wilkie (Braun-Gutierrez) House it is at least fifty (50) years old and is in fact one of the older homes in the eligible historic district, which was platted in 1926 and built out over a 60 year period.

Significance

This property represents one of a handful of Pueblo Revival style buildings in Tempe. The "Pueblo Revival Style" is a regional architectural style of the Southwestern United States which draws its inspiration from the Pueblos and the Spanish missions in New Mexico. The style developed at the turn of the 20th century and reached its greatest popularity in the 1920s and 1930s, though it is still commonly used for new buildings. Pueblo style architecture is most prevalent in the state of New Mexico. This style of architecture seeks to imitate the appearance of traditional adobe construction. If adobe is not used, rounded corners, irregular parapets, and thick, battered walls are used to simulate it. Walls are usually stuccoed and painted in earth tones. Multistory buildings usually employ stepped massing similar to that seen at Taos Pueblo in New Mexico. Roofs are always flat with a common feature of projecting wooden roof beams (vigas), which often serve no structural purpose. (Source: Wikipedia.com; Whiffen, Marcus (1969). American Architecture Since 1780. Cambridge: MIT Press)

Character-defining details of the Wilkie (Braun/Gutierrez) House include the box-like massing, stucco finish, and prominent wood vigas. The house is unique in that it provides living space on three levels; the main floor is surmounted by a small sleeping room above and a partial basement which may have been the source for the adobe construction present.

Integrity

This property maintains original spatial relationships between major features and visual rhythms in the streetscape and the lush flood-irrigated landscape. The physical features of the property, taken together, are sufficiently intact to convey their significance to someone familiar with the original property as well as to persons throughout the community to whom the property distinguishes itself as historic.

Conclusion

Based on the Post World War II Subdivision Study (Solliday 2001) and the Historic Preservation Commission's recommendation, staff considers the 1937 Pueblo Revival Style Wilkie (Braun-Gutierrez) House eligible for designation based on the criteria pursuant to Tempe City Code Section 14A-4 (a) (2) b. which states: "It is found to be of exceptional significance and expresses a distinctive character: it represents an established and familiar visual feature of an area of the city, due to a prominent location or singular physical feature". In all instances, requests for zoning map changes including overlay districts require a stipulation of signing Tempe's waiver of rights and remedies form, removing any potential claims of compensation for diminution in property value. The applicant has completed this form as shown in the attachments; therefore a condition of approval is not necessary. Staff recommends that the Wilkie (Braun/Gutierrez) House be designated and listed in the Tempe Historic Property Register as historic property number 35.

REASONS FOR APPROVAL:

1. The property meets the criteria required for individual designation, pursuant to Tempe City Code, Section 14A-4(a) noted below:
 - (1) It meets the criteria for listing on the Arizona or national register of historic places;
 - (2) It is found to be of exceptional significance and expresses a distinctive character, resulting from:
 - a. A significant portion of it is at least fifty (50) years old; is reflective of the city's cultural, social, political or economic past; and is associated with a person or event significant in local, state or national history; or
 - b. It represents an established and familiar visual feature of an area of the city, due to a prominent location or singular physical feature; or
 - (3) If it has achieved significance within the past fifty (50) years, it shall be considered eligible for designation as a landmark if it is an integral and critical part of an historic district or demonstrates exceptional individual importance by otherwise meeting or exceeding the criteria specified in paragraphs (1) or (2) of this subsection above. At such time as a landmark becomes fifty (50) years old, it will automatically be reclassified as an historic property.
2. Historic Preservation Commission recommends approval of the historic designation and listing on the historic property register.
3. The property has found to be "Potentially eligible" by a professional survey performed Ryden Architects in 1997.
4. The designation is consistent with the goals and objectives of the General Plan, Land Use Element and being identified within the "Cultural Resource Area".
